DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-12 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

3. The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) and the Intellectual Property and High Technology Technical Amendments Act of 2002 do not apply when the reference is a U.S. patent resulting directly or indirectly from an international application filed before November 29, 2000. Therefore, the prior art date of the reference is determined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).
4. Claims 1, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11 and 12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Sasano, U.S. Patent 6,313,525.
5. Pertaining to claim 1, Sasano discloses a semiconductor process as claimed. See FIG. 1 where Sasano discloses a method comprising:

Art Unit: 2823

forming a central aperture in a substrate 1;

forming electrically conductive trace 6 on a first surface of said substrate, said trace comprising a tab (area 4); and supporting an image sensor 6 in said central aperture by said tab.

6. Pertaining to claim 6, Sasano teaches the method of claim 1 wherein said supporting comprises forming a bump between a bond pad on a first surface of said image sensor and said tab.

7. Pertaining to claim 7, Sasano teaches the method of claim 6, wherein said support comprises forming a bump between a bond pad on a first surface of said image sensor and said tab.

8. Pertaining to claim 8, Sasano teaches the method of claim 7 further comprising coupling a window to said first surface of said image sensor, said window covering and protecting said active area.

9. Pertaining to claim 9, Sasano teaches the method of claim 8 further comprising directing radiation at said image sensor, said radiation striking said window, passing through said window, and striking said active area, said active area responding to said radiation.

10. Pertaining to claim 10, Sasano teaches the method of claim 7, wherein said tab extends below a periphery of said central aperture.

11. Pertaining to claim 11, Sasano teaches the method of claim 1 wherein said forming an electrically conductive trace comprises:

coupling an electrically conductive sheet to said first surface of said substrate; and patterning said sheet to form said trace

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

12. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

13. Claims 5 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Sasano, U.S. Patent 6,313,525 as applied to claim 1 and in further view of Peterson et al., U.S. Patent 6,384,473 B1.

14. Sasano discloses a semiconductor process substantially as claimed.

Pertaining to claim 5, Sasano fails to teach the method of claim 1 wherein said supporting comprises flip chip mounting said image sensor to said tab. Peterson teaches flip chip mounting an image sensor. In view of Peterson, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to incorporate the flip chip mounting of an image device in the Sasano semiconductor process because the light-sensitive side is optically accessible through the window (see Abstract, 3rd sentence).

Objections

Claims 2, 3 and 4 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Art Unit: 2823

Allowable Subject Matter

15. Claims 13-21 allowed.
